

Today's Public Official Misfit is:
Eric ("The Pimp") McFadden of Columbus, Ohio

Eric McFadden (aka, The Pimp) was the former director of Ohio Governor Ted Strickland's Faith-Based and Community Initiatives. In addition, the Pimp was the co-founder and national field director for the Catholic Alliance for the Common Good, a grassroots organization based in suburban Columbus. After working for Governor Strickland for nine months, McFadden was demoted and worked for a short period of time as an administrative assistant with the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction. (Columbus Dispatch, Reginald Fields – Aaron Marshall)

On January 14, 2009, the Pimp was arrested by the Columbus Police and charged with seven felonies, including pandering obscenities involving a minor, promoting prostitution and compelling prostitution. (Columbus Dispatch)

Columbus Police believe that the Pimp was the man they were looking for in connection with a prostitution ring that was run from Craig's List. Police cracked the ring when men involved in a web site that posts reviews of prostitutes held a raffle for sex at a brothel near downtown Columbus. (Dispatch citing WCMH TV report) Luckily for me, an unreliable source provided me with a copy of the raffle ticket and the ad the Pimp was running on Craig's list.

Who's your Daddy?

Eric's conduct is in keeping with the horde of hypocrites that rely on religion in one form or another in promoting their self-interests. In my experience, the louder the protestations (aka, proselytizing) from these hypocrites in espousing family values and/or in attacking others, the more likely it is that their closets contain more skeletons than one would find at the Arlington National Cemetery.

It is abundantly clear to me that Eric's conduct in promoting prostitution in 2007 wasn't an anomaly. I believe that it is likely that Eric's display of immorality and unethical conduct began many, many years earlier. Clearly, one does not become a purveyor of human flesh overnight!

Again, I was fortunate in obtaining an image of Eric in his early years from an unreliable source. This image seems to indicate that Eric was morally and ethically deprived at an early age. As director of Catholic Alliance for the Common

Good, Eric's stated Vision was:

- Promotes core values of justice and human dignity [wife's/hookers excluded]
- Faithful Catholics can embrace social justice teachings [or hooker if they wish]
- We inherit Jesus' call to love one's neighbor [or hookers if neighbor unavailable]
- Catholic tradition teaches us to put principle before profit [Not according to Eric]

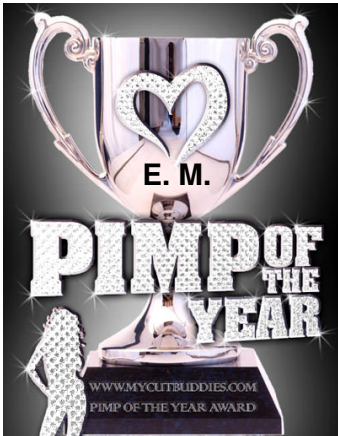

It is quite obvious that Eric the Pimp never intended to comport his conduct with the Vision statements set forth above. In fact, these Vision statements in regards to Eric are nothing more than hyperbolic jingoism. If the truth meant anything to Eric, the Visions stated above would or should have included a disclaimer excluding women, wives, and especially hookers.

Eric the Pimp's Ride

One cannot be an effective Pimp without procuring an appropriate ride befitting one engaged in servicing the public, albeit as an upstanding Catholic. In Eric's case, he apparently opted for a ride that would be conducive to eliminating a client's cost of paying for a motel.

Eric and Hypocrisy 101

While using Craigslist to run his prostitution ring, Eric the Pimp used the code name of “mcfaddencatholic.” In his online posts, Eric claimed to be the “guru” of prostitution in Columbus, and provided information to potential clients about the women available, the type of sex interaction she was willing to perform and the place to meet her. He wrote reviews on prostitution services as well as giving advice on not to get caught (NBC 4-Columbus). Seems as though Eric’s advice on not getting caught was as worthless as he is, right?

Eric who was a supporter of John Kerry, Hillary Clinton and Barack Obama described his outreach in 2007 on the Buckeye State Blog as giving “a voice to Catholics so they can stand up and say, ‘I am a Catholic Democrat, and I’m proud and these are the principles that I believe in.’”

Additionally, Eric was a member of the Knights of Columbus and reached the 4th order. He subsequently penned a letter to the Knights of Columbus asserting that Supreme Knight Carl Anderson was leading Catholics astray by suggesting that Catholics could not vote for pro-abortion candidates. What about pro-castration supporters like Lorena Bobbitt, Eric?

Eric’s Humiliation of his Family

A highly reliable source (Eric was the person’s boss) advised me that his wife was an especially nice person. I was further advised that Eric’s son unfortunately suffers from a condition known as Aspergers.

Aspergers is a developmental disorder affecting a child’s ability to socialize and communicate effectively with others. They typically exhibit social awkwardness and an all-absorbing interest in narrow topics, such as baseball statistics, train schedules, weather or snakes (Eric the Pimp would qualify as a snake, right?) They will appear to not empathize with, or be sensitive to others’ feeling.

How sad it is that Eric’s wife is now subject to ridicule and humiliation because of his despicable conduct. Clearly, it would appear that Eric likely told his wife, “Frankly, my dear, I don’t give a damn” in regards to his shameful conduct. Hopefully, Eric’s wife will show him the door and send him packing. In fact, I would suggest that she toss his belongings on the front lawn and do so only after alerting the local media. In the alternative and maybe even more appropriately, maybe she should engage in a little Bobbitt-ism!

And lastly, Eric’s short tenure working for Ohio’s prison system will likely not inure to his benefit when he’s imprisoned. However, I suspect that he will learn early on from some really, really friendly inmates about the manner in which prostitution is run in the prison system. If Eric is looking for the ultimate in protection from any amorous inmates, I would suggest that he purchase an “inversed chastity belt” before he is incarcerated. Hey Eric, if you’re sent to the Mansfield Correctional Institution, tell Clarita (real name is Clarence) that I said Hello.
